DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-9, 11-26, 28-42, 44-61 and 63-72 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shoff et al (6,240,555) in view of Fein et al (5,897,623).

As to claim 1, note the Shoff reference figures 2 and 8, interactive entertainment system (ITV-System 20, fig.2 and 4) for presenting supplemental interactive content together with continuous video programs and further discloses a method of script usage in an interactive television system comprising:

Executing an interactive application 'IAP' corresponding to a program (figs.2, 5, Processor 92 of Viewer Computing Unit 'VCU' 24 or STB 26, col.4, lines 14-34, line 56-col.5, line 23 and col.8, lines 4-34), note that VCU/STB 24/26 receives the TV program, the supplemental interactive content, an interactive icon "script" and the interactive application, via Head end 22, a television broadcaster and web content provider (col.4, lines 14-21 and line 43-col.5, line 1+), stores in memory (94/96, coupled to Tuner 98/100, fig.5, col.8, lines 4-38) and Processor 92 "a network communications operator," retrieves these contents and execute IAP to provide TV program, the icon and supplemental content accordingly on display 200 (figs.8a-8c, col.8, lines 38-61 and col.10, line 59-col.11, line 1+);

Providing an opportunity (Processor 92 displays Icon 204, other indicia, fig.8 and col.9, lines 30-53) for display of added content (Supplemental Interactive content, col.5, line 12-33), where provision of the added content is configured to be triggered by one or more user selections (Remote Control, mouse, etc., col.4, lines 27-34 and col.9, lines 54-59), note that the icon, other indicia on the screen informs the viewer that the program is interactive or includes supplemental content;

Generating one or more automatic selections associated with the opportunity (figs.8b and 8c), the generating comprising executing a script, where provision of the added content is triggered by the one or more automatic selections instead of one or more selections and providing the added content for display is response to detecting the automatic selections; and providing the added content for display in response to detecting the automatic selections (col.10, line 44-col.11, line 1+ and col.12, lines 48-col.13, line 1+), note that activating the script or Icon 204 displays the supplemental content as partly overlaid on the video program, or provided as a wrapper around or along side the program and automatic displays additional buttons 212-221 and second tier of information which are synchronized to the program according to timing information.

Shoff is silent to where the interactive application provides two or more levels of added content, and where the automated input is indicative of a particular level of the levels of added content to be displayed.

However, note the Fein reference figures 1-3, discloses interactive method for providing information about items on a list for interactive television, where a selected item includes increasing levels of additional information (col.1, line 57-col.2, line 32, col.3, line 58-col.4, line 67 and col.7, line 11-col.8, line 1+).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate the teaching of Fein into the system of Shoff to provide levels of additional information to a selected item, to assist the user in making other decision regarding the selected item.

As to claim 7, Shoff further discloses where the icon is configured to provide at least one of the one or more automatic selections associated with the opportunity at a predetermined time (col.9, lines 41-49 and col.11, lines 21-24 and line 48-col.12, line 1+).

As to claim 8 and 9, Shoff further discloses where the added content is pushed content (col.9, line 54-col.10, line 17 and line 50-col.11, line 1+).

As to claim 9, Shoff further discloses where the script is configured to store the one or more selections in a message queue in a repeated manner and where the interactive application is configured to determine whether one or more automatic selections exists by accessing the message queue (col.9, line 54-col.10, line 17 and line 50-col.11, line 1+).

As to claim 11, Shoff further discloses displaying the advertisements on TV or Monitor 200 (figs.8a-8c).

As to claim 12, Shoff further discloses indicating default script usage preferences and storing the preferences (col.10, line 59-col.11, line 33).

As to claim 13, Shoff further discloses where the script is configured to simulate one or more user selections (col.10, line 59-col.11, line 33).

As to claim 14, Shoff further discloses where the icon is downloaded (col.10, line 59-col.11, line 33).

As to claim 15, Shoff further discloses where the icon is dynamically created (col.10, line 59-col.11, line 33).

Claim 16 is met as previously discussed with respect to claims 1-2.

Claims 17-18 are met as previously discussed with respect to claim 9.

As to claim 19, the claimed "a carrier medium comprising program instructions, where the program instructions are executable to..." contains the same structural elements as rejected claim 1.

As to claim 31, Shoff further discloses where the icon is dynamically created (col.9, lines 35-65 and col.10, line 59-col.11, line 11).

Claim 32 is met as previously discussed with respect to claim 8.

As to claim 33, Shoff further discloses where the icon is configured to store the one or more automatic selections (col.9, line 54-col.10, line 17 and line 44-col.11, line 11).

As to claim 34, the claimed "a script usage device (set-top box 'STB' 11) comprising..." contains the same structural elements as rejected claim 1.

A first source (TV program Source via Tuner 98) configured to convey and interactive application to a receiver (VCU-24 or STB-26, fig.5 and col.8, lines 4-18);

A second source (Supplemental Content Source via Tuner/Modem 100) configured to convey added content to the receiver (VCU-24 or STB-26, fig.5 and col.8, lines 4-18); and

The receiver (VCU-24 or STB-26) coupled to the first source and the second source, where the receiver is configured to:

Providing an opportunity (Processor 92 displays Icon 204, other indicia, fig.8 and col.9, lines 30-53) for display of added content (Supplemental Interactive content, col.5, line 12-33), where provision of the added content is configured to be triggered by one or more user selections (Remote Control, mouse, etc., col.4, lines 27-34 and col.9, lines 54-59), note that the icon, other indicia on the screen informs the viewer that the program is interactive or includes supplemental content;
